

A workshop for nomadic painters

Morning

Meeting with the trainees over coffee at the workshop.

Presentation of the site, its pictorial past and current plastic possibilities. You will discover in situ numerous works by renowned artists reproducing the very place where they were made. A booklet with a signposted map will be given to you. To begin, you will get familiar with your supplies (ink, pencil, color, support...) While remaining at the top of the village near to the workshop, we suggest taking the streets close to the old town hall and around the Notre-Dame de l'Assomption church. Emphasis will be placed on observation, experimentation and letting go in order to discover your pictorial universe.

Understand the artistic approach and objectives of each.

Goals

- learn colour selection.
- synthesize and simplify a landscape.
- assert your graphic personality.
- explore different techniques.
- get out of your comfort zone.
- deal with the landscape.
- please yourself.
- let go.
- observe.

Day from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. with a lunch break from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Afternoon

After lunch, we will descend to the lower part of the village.

You will find the perfect place to sketch by choosing the best framing.

We will pass through the old wash house to the Pontmartin estate to discover the Louis Montagné avenue with its over than a hundred-year-old plane trees. An oasis of freshness awaits you at the foot of the village.

Each drawing or painted sketch created represents an experience filled with emotions. Drawing in the heart of nature, it is something to inspire your travel's journals!

Dare to tell a story!

Depending on the type of environment looked for, we will return to the workshop by going up the spring or by the panorama path.

The last half hour will be devoted to an assessment. Comment on everyone's work and to discuss the works produced. So much fun! You'll share with the other participants their external and caring perspective, It is mutually instructive. The singularity of each universe leads to questioning.

Influence keeps you moving forward!
